A portrait is replica of the photo. So here are the examples of good photo

Good lighting

No shadow on the face so all the features are clearly seen

Preferably take photo at the eye level so that all features are clearly seen

How to take a photo for a portrait

Take photo at eye level of the animal, preferably in the natural light

Ensure that all features are clear

Here are the examples of bad photos

Long shots, Blurry, low light photos

Photo of the animal or the bird not clear
